This is "old school" so if you're into the latest and greatest graphics, don't bother reading this post. But if you like text-based adventure games like Colossal Cave and Zork then read on.

I recently started feeling nostalgic about those old games and the computers that you ran 'em on. So I dusted off some of my old systems and started rooting around, finding those old games. I eventually decided to write my own.

Check it out:
Jinx Adventure Game
Multiple platforms are supported. There are versions for old computers like the Apple II but there are also versions for newer systems. Find yours, go into the directory listed for your system and click the "Jinx" program to play.
